If You Have Concerns About Your Toddler’s Development

What You Can Do

If you have concerns:

1. Talk with your health care provider.
2. Find extra support through your public health nurse, parent-and-child groups or a child care program.
3. Call HealthLink BC at 8-1-1.
4. Ensure your concerns are followed up. Follow-up might include watching your toddler play, completing a child development screening questionnaire or referring you to another child development or health professional. Your health care provider or child care provider may refer you to one of the Ministry of Children and Family Development’s support programs.

KEY TAKEAWAY

All children develop at their own pace, but most reach milestones by a set time. If you have concerns, help is available.

DID YOU KNOW

If your toddler was born early (preterm) or had serious health problems at birth, she may develop at a slower pace. Your health care provider can help you support her development.
